EDITORIAL

Dear readers and authors,

At the end of 2022, the editorial team celebrates the launch of the 12th issue of the Drug Analytical Research journal. In the six-year trajectory since its first issue, we have faced different challenges to allow the transmission of innovative research for the evaluation of drugs. However, we are satisfied with the relevant contribution that the journal has achieved in the scientific area, as well as its gradual consolidation as an electronic scientific journal. Finally, we would like to thank the authors of the current issue and encourage readers to submit new manuscripts for the first issue of 2023.

We wish you all an excellent reading.
